APPLIED BUSINESS QUESTION

Palace Cinema Ltd

The Palace Cinema Ltd was founded by Paul Murphy in 1967 in a town in the west of Ireland. The cinema has two screens and occupies a large premises on the main street. The cinema provided full-time employment for 10 employees in the past, although that number was reduced following the introduction of the national minimum wage in the Government's Budget 2000. When the business premises were refurbished, the heating system was modernised to reduce the impact of the 'Carbon Tax' which was introduced in Budget 2009. Ticket sales had declined in recent years due to increased competition from a large multiplex cinema located on the outskirts of the town and a growth in online film providers such as Netflix. Paul retired in 2015 and his daughter Joanne was appointed Managing Director. Joanne recognised the need to adapt and develop new opportunities for the company if it was to survive in the future. She completed a business course provided by the Local Enterprise Office (LEO) and she was matched with an experienced business person.

With the help of her mentor, Joanne realised that she couldn't compete with the multiplex 9 screen cinema which was offering the latest film releases. Encouraged by her market research Joanne identified a gap in the market for multicultural and international films. She launched a film club called 'Friends of the Palace' which shows international cinema, targeting film lovers and provides an opportunity for audiences of all ages to view films from all over the world. She adopted a flexible approach to pricing. Members could either choose to pay a season subscription at reduced rates, or pay on the night for each film. She modernised the cinema's website, which enabled customers to book on-line. Members receive an e-newsletter once a month with links to the trailers of upcoming films. For those who choose to pay on the night, she also introduced a loyalty card system to encourage repeat purchase. The film club was a huge success and membership continues to grow.

In 2017, to celebrate 50 years of the Palace Cinema in the town, it was decided to hold a film festival over the June holiday weekend. Joanne held a brainstorming meeting with her staff who suggested a James Bond theme for the festival, as the first film shown in the cinema in 1967 was You Only Live Twice. Joanne allocated a budget for the film festival and arranged two teams, one to organise the programme of events and create the film workshops and one to take responsibility for the marketing and finance of the festival. Joanne arranged training on team working skills and effective task management. The team with responsibility for the festival programme embraced the opportunity and invited guest speakers from the UK to discuss the soundtracks and props used in the different films. The marketing and finance team accessed a substantial grant under the Government's 'Town and Village Renewal Scheme' and managed to entice local businesses to become sponsors of the event. The Film Festival proved to be a huge success and the local Chamber of Commerce has called for it to become a regular event.
